Being attentive to the needs of others might not be the point of life, but it is the work of life.

In our Vision and Mission statement, Star of the Sea Catholic College hopes to be people who are attentive. We might think that, at first glance, in a school context that means paying attention in class, but it isn't really what we are getting at.

In a school founded by Presentation Sisters and having the charism of Nano Nagle, being attentive for us actually means being attentive to the needs of others. It means looking deeper into situations and into what people are saying and asking ourselves, "What is it that this person needs?"

Being attentive is a response to seeking justice for all. Someone once described justice as giving people what they need. So in our effort to seek justice for all who are in our community, we have to ask people what they need.

A simple example of being attentive might be people who are homeless. It is easy for us to say, "I know what the homeless need. They need a house to live in." But when we are truly attentive to the situation and can delve deeper into why people are homeless, houses are not always the right answer.

For many people who are homeless, what is really needed is to overcome the issues that made them homeless in the first place. They may not need a house, but they may need support for their mental health. Or they may need support to escape from domestic violence which saw them take their young children and sleep in a car. Or they may need help in securing stable employment which can help them pay the bills for food and rent.

So what does being attentive mean for the Star of the Sea Catholic community? It means seeing what the needs are in our community and trying to act upon them. St Vincent de Paul (Vinnies) is attentive to the needs of those in our community who struggle to live on low incomes, and as a school we have held food drives and fundraisers to support them. CatholicCare is attentive to the needs of those who need counselling, whilst Ainslie is attentive to the needs of the elderly in our community.

At a school level, we need to ask ourselves what are the needs of each individual child. For some, those needs are getting support with their school work. For others, it is getting support with behaviour so they can achieve better social and learning outcomes. For others, we need to be attentive to their mental health needs and try to put things in place that can support their anxiety or depression. For others still, the need might be having enough to eat each day so they can approach their school work without having to worry about food or if they'll get something for lunch.

Our school community is full of many needs. The challenge for us is to be attentive as a community so that we can recognise these needs and do our best to do something about them.

Pentecost

The feast of Pentecost on Sunday 31st May celebrates the birth of the Christian Church, when the Holy Spirit came down on the apostles in an extraordinary and real way. But how many of us think about presence of the Spirit in our lives. This short extract from 'The Signs of the Spirit in our Lives' by Mary Coloe, reminds us that the same Spirit who came to the apostles at Pentecost is present for us in our lives today:

"When you stand in an underground train station, the first sense you have of an approaching train is the wind as the train pushes the air in front of it. You cannot hear or see anything yet, but the wind announces the train is on its way.

I liken this to our experience of the Spirit. In both Hebrew and Greek, the word for spirit is the same as 'wind' or 'breath'. Like the wind, we do not see or hear the Spirit, but we experience its effects:

- the urge to respond to an issue of justice
- the move to compassion at the sight of suffering
- the ongoing, subtle sense of God's presence in our lives
- the ability to discern what is right from what is wrong.

These are the signs of the Spirit in our lives – prompting, encouraging, guiding and empowering us to live from Jesus' vision of the reign of God." Garratt Publishing 2012 ©

World Environment Day 2020

On Friday, we celebrate World Environment Day. We acknowledge in a special way Laudato Si' Week. Pope Francis in his encyclical, "On Care for our Common Home", encourages us to reflect on the values we share and create a more just and sustainable future.

The theme this year is biodiversity. Biodiversity is vital to the survival of all life on earth. It provides us with food, water and resources as well as services such as climate control and pollination.

As stewards of creation we are called to care for our planet and all creation, and World Environment Day strives to raise awareness and encourage us to action.

This week sees the last week of Learning at Home for our secondary students, who are due to return next Tuesday 9th June. For this week we ask that our secondary students:

- Start to get back into their school waking and sleeping routines
- Work hard to complete any work set by their teachers
- Remember to bring in their device next Tuesday if they borrowed one.

Social Distancing of Adults in our Community

We would like to thank all of our Primary school parents and carers who have taken on the spirit of the social distancing measures we have put in place here at the school. We appreciate it does not feel natural or normal, but we know it is for the best for all of our community.

College Board

Last Wednesday our College Board met for the first time this year, via Zoom. Our first meeting was cancelled due to COVID-19 restrictions. Whilst our meeting was short we have found a way forward, with our next meeting and the AGM to occur on Wednesday 17th June, also via Zoom. There is a vacancy on the Board, so if any parent or friend of the College is interested in joining, please contact the College office for further details.

MJR

On Monday this week, the Grade 5 and 6 students welcomed Marty Ogle into their classroom to learn more about MJR. Not only did 'Marty from MJR' dazzle the Grade 5 and 6 students with his magic tricks, but he also shared with the students some useful tips on how to be the best person each of them can be.

MJR is about always 'Believing in yourself'. One of the best ways you can 'believe in yourself' is to always try your best at everything you do, even if it is hard.....and to not be afraid of making a mistake even if what you want to do is hard. 'Believing in yourself' gives each of us the courage to ask for help when we need it, and to not be scared of practising and practicing when learning a new skill.

"Marty showed us to look for the 'Spirit of Jesus' moments at school where we see someone helping another person, or including others in their games." (Belynda Hyland Grade 6)

"MJR is about B.I.Y which means 'believe in yourself'. Many of us in Grade 6 often don't believe in ourselves, and we often doubt our abilities. Marty from MJR showed us that to believe in ourselves is to just be our self." (Emma Thomas and Jennifer Munro, Grade 6)

"MJR is about looking for the good in everyone." (Erin Vanderzwan, Grade 6)
